What is SAT?

The team of coaches at Speed Advantage Training are all Strength and Conditioning coaches at Lehigh University, each with a rich background in the field and an abundant amount of experience working with athletes of different sports. Over the last decade, SAT has trained athletes ranging from youth league players to Division I College athletes, even NFL starters and an Olympic Gold Medalist. The SAT camps are designed to not only improve each athlete's speed and explosiveness, but more importantly, to build intangibles that will help win games and championships. Athletes will work and sweat together, develop leadership skills, build toughness, and strive to capture that "it factor" that will separate them from other teams. The technique and knowledge that an athlete leaves with will have a lasting effect on them that will be carried on to the field. So give us a try and get ready to reach new levels of athletic performance.
